MIGUEL RÓZPIDE PAZÓ

KIDS

Kids, muestra la esencia de la juventud en sí misma, las miradas de personas que nunca han dejado de ser niñas. A través de un viaje por diferentes escenarios las fotografías no solo capturan momentos mágicos e irrepetibles, sino que cada una de ellas encierra un alma juvenil llena de fuerza, de nostalgia y de mucha energía. Una exposición que solo podrá dejar indiferentes a los que nunca hayan sido niños.

Miguel Rózpide Pazó

Miguel Rózpide Pazó, born on September 5, 1997 in Pontevedra, Spain, is a young photographer who is especially dedicated to analog captures. His passion for photography runs in his family, his career began when he got his father's old Nikon, which he recovered to immortalize different moments of his life.

Due to his dedication and love for his job, Miguel has managed to improve the quality of his photographs and also to have at his disposition a variety of cameras and rolls with which he can experiment and bring his new ideas to life. Street photography is one of his predilections, in fact, he has recently begun a new collection of snapshots that portrays the beautiful and endearing parsimony of the elderly in different situations.

Among his most prominent and reputable collaborations, there are several exhibitions in some hometown establishments, photographic reports for the SanSan Festival 2015 or a photo-contribution in Last.Daze Magazine.

It should be noted that, in his eagerness to defend and support analog photography, in winter 2014 he created Analogue Vibes: a digital magazine that began with an account on Instagram (that now reaches 20000 followers and more than 150,000 tagged photos on its hashtag), and it is aimed at promoting new and talented photographers by presenting interviews and biographies associated with their incredible captures. To finish, Rózpide's desire was implemented at the beginning of this summer, when he started to perform the printed edition of Analogue Vibes that, hopefully, will be published by the end of this year.
